

Custom Development Services for Industry Leaders

Custom Development Services

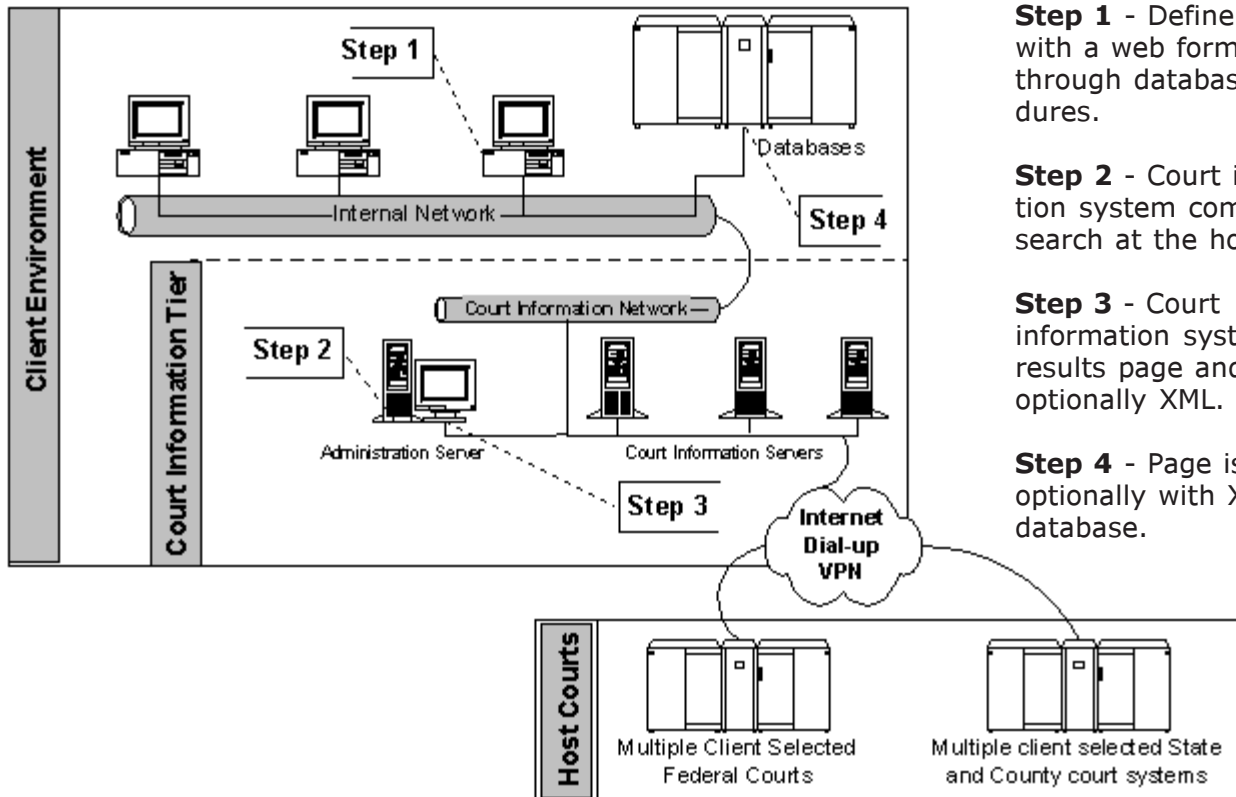

CourtTrax's Custom Development Services Group offers our clients end-to-end development and testing services. Our Development Services group delivers distinctive expertise in project management, architecture, development, testing, quality assurance and systems engineering to create flexible solutions that address your specific project needs. On every project, we use our expertise to meet your objectives by establishing an understanding of your goals and priorities prior to defining a solution.

Features at a Glance

- Customized solutions for automated information retrieval
- Lower costs using industry-proven platform
- Highly scalable and highly secure
- Complete customer control of information integration

The CourtTrax Development Group has over 40 years of collective experience building automated court information solutions. We have an extensive, successful history of developing on-line connectivity to court computer systems that we apply to every project.

Through sound project management, efficient communication, proven methodologies and leveraging the right resources at the right time we ensure your satisfaction. Regardless of the size, scope, phase, or location we will provide just the right mix of expertise, teams, process, facilities, technology and project management to deliver a customized solution – to spec, on time and on budget.

Step 1 - Define search with a web form or through database procedures.

Step 2 - Court information system completes search at the host court.

Step 3 - Court information system builds results page and optionally XML.

Step 4 - Page is returned, optionally with XML to database.